Make a gratitude card

In this activity, you'll be making a gratitude card for someone special to you. Making a card for someone is a way to show them how much they mean to you. You'll need glue, markers, construction papers, scissors, and decorative embellishments such as tapes and stickers optional, a picture of the person or your picture together.

|
1.Gather your materials.
2. Choose a color for your card. Fold it in a half.
3. Decide where to glue the pictures you have and if you don't have any pictures you can draw a picture in the front or inside the card. Something to think about is something you want to draw for the person you're writing to. You can also cut different shapes to glue and add decorations to your card.

4. After you thought of where you will be pasting the things you have for your card. Put glue and attach them on the card. You can add drawing and words.
5. Inside your card, decide what you'll do, you can draw, glue decorations and write words to tell the person you're writing to how much you appreciate them.
6. Once you're done with your card, give it to the person you made the card for if they live with you. If the person lives in a different house, ask your adult for an envelope, stamp, and to help you mail the card by writing the address of the person and sending the card in the Post Office.
